

How California's Housing Market is Failing to Meet the Needs of Low-Income Families

An analysis of the enormous shortfall of homes affordable to low-income families in California, the impact of state and federal disinvestment in affordable housing in recent years, and recommendations for policy makers.

An analysis of the enormous shortfall of homes affordable to low-income families in California, the impact of state and federal disinvestment in affordable housing in recent years, and recommendations for policy makers.